We are very pleased and honored to have provided a program which was the focus of our summer schedule. We held this event on the grounds at the Southampton Historical Museum and Research Center on Thursday August 11.

Guests for the evening included the 2011 AIA Peconic Scholarship winners representing area high schools (Ross School, Eastport-South Manor CHSD and Southampton High School) and national colleges and universities (Tulane University School of Architecture, Roger Williams University, Philadelphia University, University of Notre Dame and Laguna College of Art and Design).

These 2011 AIA Peconic Scholarships were made possible, in part, with a grant provided to AIA Peconic from AIA Component Matching Grant Program. Architects share an important responsibility in assuring the health, safety and welfare of the communities they serve. The American Institute of Architects is committed to contributing to the preparation of graduates who will meet the current and future challenges in a swiftly evolving profession. The AIA believes that the investment to support the education of future professionals is a crucial part of its mission.

Miles Kozatch from The Ross School, Scott Rose from Southampton High School, Faith Tuttle from Eastport-South Manor CHSD, Alexander Morris from The Ross School and Alyxandra Tortorice from Southampton High School all received awards from AIA Peconic.

Along with the students and their parents, NYS AIA President David Businelli, AIA and the membership of AIA Peconic spent a wonderful summer evening having a country picnic at the Southampton Historical Museum and Research Center.
